

In Joe Kan village near Bagan, there are 48 children at the the primary school who used to have to travel 5 miles to the nearest small town to be educated. During the wet season they had to cross four streams, and many children were forced to stay at home. The school was funded with donations of old cars disposed of through Give A Car .

